BARBADOS, December 2.

His Excellency the Hon. HENRY GREENVILLE, Esq; our Governor, having issued writs for electing new representatives in Assembly, returnable the 26th of November, the same were returned accordingly; and the Members so returned being sworn, he made the following SPEECH to both Houses.

Gentlemen of the Council, and
Gentlemen of the Assembly,

FROM the long experience I had of your zeal for his majesty's service, and for the peace, welfare, and good government of the island, I meet you, upon this occasion, in full assurance that you will continue to make it your chief aim to promote these great and desirable ends, by all the means in your power, and with that unanimity in your councils, which has hitherto so remarkably prevail'd betwixt you, and which I have always considered and always shall consider, as the peculiar happiness of my administration.

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

The passing of a new excise Bill; the making provision for the repairs of your fortifications (in case the funds raised last year for that purpose, should hereafter prove deficient); and the entering upon some proper and reasonable scheme for preserving and improving the harbour at Bridge-Town; are matters, which I cannot dispense with myself from recommending to your serious thoughts; they are all absolutely necessary to the credit, safety, and trade of the island, and do therefore well deserve your attention.

Nor can I think it less incumbent on you, to consider of some effectual measures (consistent with law, and the rights and privileges of his majesty's subjects) for preventing any persons, within this government, from taking up lands, and making settlements in any foreign colonies, more especially the island of St. Croix, and other settlements belonging to the Dutch and Danes. --It is impossible you can be insensible how much the value of this, and all his majesty's sugar colonies must naturally be affected by such a practice; as it adds to the strength, and increases the riches, of these our competitors in trade, in the same degree as it diminishes our own; which I am persuaded, I need not take pains to recommend to you, to exercise your thoughts upon a subject of such amazing importance to the interest of the nation in general, and to that of your own country in particular.

You will do well also to consider, whether some further laws may not be requisite, to prevent the illicit importation (if any such there be) of foreign sugar, rums, or molasses, into this island, as well as to put a stop to that increasing mischief, the clandestine departure of men in debt, making a fraudful escape from the laws, with their negroes and effects, to the apparent fraud and loss of their just creditors, the great discouragement of the public, and the reproach of government.

Gentlemen of the Council, and
Gentlemen of the Assembly,

I have lately receiv'd his majesty's express commands forthwith to consider and revise, jointly with you, all and every of the acts, statutes and ordinances, which are in force within this island, excepting only such as relate to private property, or are otherwise of a private nature; and in lieu thereof to frame and pass a compleat, and well digested body of new laws.

That you may be the better able to comprehend the whole scope and extent of his majesty's royal intentions, I shall order copies of his instructions to me, upon this head, to be laid before you respectively.

You will therein find such high and singular proofs of his majesty's love of justice, and of his care and concern for promoting order and good government in the island, and securing in the dearest manner the properties and possessions of his subjects, by preventing all those litigious controversies and disputes which must naturally arise from the present confus'd, and indigested system of your laws, as justly claim your admiration, your obedience, your gratitude.

Well may I therefore rest assur'd, that you on your parts, will lose no time in making use of an opportunity so kindly put into your hands by his majesty, of recommending yourselves to his favour and esteem, as well as of endearing your names and memories to your posterity, by a chearful and speedy compliance with those his most gracious directions, so plainly calculated for the future happiness of the island, and establishing it upon the surest foundation.---- For such I shall always think a body of laws, form'd upon the true principles of your constitution, succinct, clear, and uncontrovertable in their sense and expression.

For my own part, I hope that my conduct has all along been such, as to leave you free from all doubt of the hearty concurrence of my endeavours with yours, for bringing to perfection this arduous work; a work, which considered in all its lights, I cannot but look upon as the most beneficial to this island, that the legislature can ever engage in.
